3E Company has introduced a global chemical incident response service, through which chemical manufacturers and distributors can use a single point of contact to provide their customers and supply chain partners with a reliable hotline for chemical incidents associated with their products during use, transport or storage. The 24-hour service simplifies the chemical incident response process, reduces risk, promotes compliance, assists manufacturers and distributors in supporting their corporate chemical stewardship mandates, and provides a single global source for immediate access to valuable EH&S information and resources, 3E says.
