

Chemical and Regulatory Data Management Services

Overview

3E Chemical and Regulatory Data Management (CRDM) Services help companies improve the chemical and regulatory content maintained for their raw materials and identify changes in areas such as regulatory, health effects, and environmental effects which may impact the products they produce and or sell. Outsourcing the complex and time-consuming chemical data management processes of obtaining supplier MSDSs, gap analysis and compilation of required chemical and regulatory information, data input and maintenance to the experienced EH&S professional at 3E Company enables companies to improve compliance management, increase EH&S cost efficiencies and enhance staff productivity.

Services

Services can include 3E performing the following:

- Contacting suppliers to obtain information and documents of interest
- Compiling the chemical and regulatory information customers deem important to their business
- Performing value-added services on request, for example, detection of inconsistencies in information from suppliers, identification of changes reported by the suppliers, performing hazard chemical classifications, generating hazard labels and MSDSs and identification and appropriate response to regulatory changes.
- Entering and maintaining information in companies' authoring platform, ERP system or data warehouse.

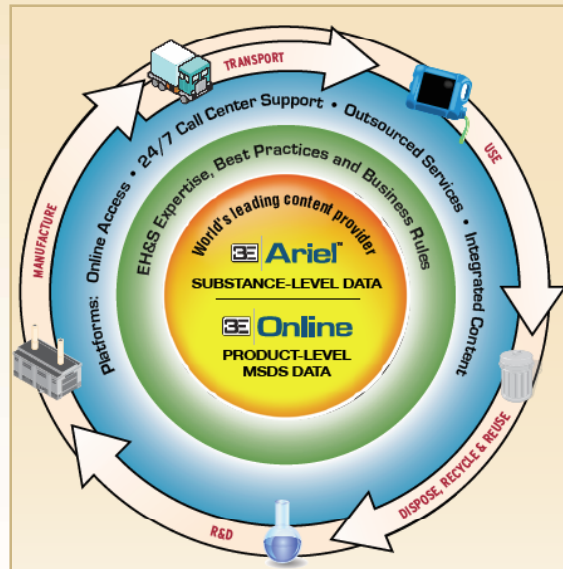

CRDM Services are backed by 3E's unparalleled knowledgebase of global chemical regulatory information. CRDM Services can be used with the most commercially available EH&S platforms, including SAP EHS, ProSteward and The WERCS, as well as with proprietary systems.

These industry-leading resources, including 24/7/365 access to 3E staff can be combined with customers' business rules for data management in order to facilitate a prompt and appropriate response to constantly changing regulatory information.

EH&S Challenges

With the spotlight shining brightly on EH&S compliance, companies are challenged with finding effective ways to address the complexities and intricacies of EH&S compliance management. Not only do these challenges stem from a constantly-changing regulatory landscape, but also from a scarcity of newcomers to the EH&S field, and pressure on EH&S departments to manage increased responsibility with fewer resources. Addressing these issues requires broad and deep domain expertise—expertise that doesn't always exist within the company. And if it does, this expertise is probably best utilized driving the company's overall compliance strategy, not bogged down with paperwork or the administrative burdens associated with maintaining compliance.
